

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a letter or a page from a manuscript. The text is written in a dark ink on aged paper. The handwriting is dense and somewhat difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and some fading. The text appears to be a personal communication, possibly a letter, given the use of pronouns and the conversational tone. The script is characteristic of the 17th or 18th century.

Fragment of handwritten text on the right edge of the page, partially cut off. It continues the cursive script from the main body of text, showing the right-hand side of the letters and some words. The text is less legible due to the partial view.